

eMazzanti Technologies Launches Messaging Architects to Strengthen Information Governance Offerings

Company adds high-level information governance skills to broaden services; existing customers to benefit from world-class email migration and project management team

Hoboken, NJ -- (Cision) March 7, 2019 – eMazzanti Technologies, A NYC area IT consultant and MSP, today announced the launch of Messaging Architects, an eMazzanti Technologies Company. The strategic move by eMazzanti adds enterprise-grade information governance, email migration, eDiscovery and compliance solutions and support to its full slate of managed IT and security, cloud and digital marketing services.

The company's new website, messagingarchitects.com emphasizes the primary characteristics of the organization's offerings: Architected, Compliant and Secure. According to eMazzanti company leadership, Messaging Architects was organized from assets and personnel acquired in a partnership deal completed with an unnamed prominent information governance solution provider late last year.

With over 20 years of information management and technology consulting experience, the Messaging Architects team adds significant strength to eMazzanti's existing information governance capabilities. Customers can expect world-class email migrations, eDiscovery, security and compliance solutions, project management and support from an enterprise-proven team.

"We now have the best email migration team on the planet," reported Jennifer Mazzanti, CEO eMazzanti Technologies. "The Messaging Architects launch broadens our email and information governance capabilities and our market reach to larger, more diverse organizations."

Market Reach and Offerings Expanded

Prior to coming under the eMazzanti umbrella, Messaging Architects provided corporations, educational intuitions, health care facilities and nonprofits with methodologies, procedures and technology to keep their data organized and secure. eMazzanti Technologies primarily assists retailers, manufacturers, distributors, local government organizations in developing technology strategies to increase revenues, reduce costs and strengthen data security.
